

Coming Alive Again

© Will Stanley 2018

Every day seemed cold and dark
My life seemed to have lost its spark
I almost felt like my soul was dead
And my heart, filled with dread

You appeared a vision from the mist
Instantly I knew what I had missed
So now I'm trying to formulate
The emotions you create

And I love you.....Yes I love you....I truly do....Cuz you make me sense
That I'm coming alive again.

I tried to do it all by myself
To reconstruct my mental health
But instead of improving things
I just increased my mood swings

That's why you constantly hear me say
That your presence has saved the day
You made sure my head was screwed on straight
As you relieved this crushing weight

And I love you.....Yes I love you....I truly do....Cuz you make me sense
That I'm coming alive again.

Some say that life is nothing but pain
You showed me that it's really full of sun despite some rain.

And I love you.....Yes I love you....I truly do....Cuz you make me sense
That I'm coming alive again.

And I love you.....Yes I love you....I truly do....Cuz you make me sense
That I'm coming alive again.
