

I Choose You

© 2019 Will Stanley

I've always had a difficult time
When it comes to making up my mind
At a restaurant I'd order the fish
Then see a more enticing dish
And when it came to settling on a fulltime job
Did I want to be a cop or join the mob
I couldn't even choose which baseball team to like
Or which boxer to root for in a fight

So I figured I would agonize
About the lady who'd be my bride
I made a list of all I'd need
So my happiness was guaranteed
But instead when you appeared it only took one look
To realize you had exactly what it took
To turn my head around and show me what to do
I couldn't stand the thought that I might lose
I choose you.

Please believe me I'll be everything you want in a man
Show me now that you accept this ring in my hand.

Instrumental

Let's begin our life together as soon as we can find
A preacher who will implement those ties that bind
We'll begin our lives together as one made out of two
And this will be the motto for me and you
I choose you.
