

Misremembering

© Will Stanley 2018

It was a total shock when that bombshell dropped on me
When she announced, we were through and she was free
My mouth agape, my eyes like plates of blue
I couldn't speak, I didn't know what to do

My brain went on hiatus
As did my vitality
My emotions tried to create us
A new reality

She'd been my everything
Unless I'm misremembering
She made my heart sing
Unless I'm misremembering

How to understand what made her want to leave
Whatever, I had no choice but to grieve
To lose a love so deep and wide and strong
Makes you feel that there's no place you belong.

So as I try to find myself
Among my heart's broken shards
I wonder if I've become Permanently scarred

She was my everything
Unless I'm misremembering
She made my heart sing
Unless I'm misremembering

Memory is a funny thing
We always think it's a video
But actually it's just a story that we bring
And we change it as we go.

Instrumental verse

So when I face the facts head on
I'm afraid it's not all true
And most of what I've said
Is a bunch of ballyhoo

She was my everything
Unless I'm misremembering
She made my heart sing
Unless I'm misremembering
Unless I'm misremembering
Unless I'm misremembering
I guess I'm misremembering
