

The Urge To Merge

Father O'Reilly whom I thought of highly was firm
When he looked at me with those beady eyes it made me squirm
He knew it was the devil's work that made people want to converge
Said it's a sin, said it's a scourge
The Urge To Merge

Patty Murray said please don't hurry, we've got time
I know you love me and the stars above say it's no crime
I want it to be worth the wait, and yet please don't hesitate
I can sense, you're on the verge
Of the Urge To Merge

Ever since old Adam and Eve
Women and men have joined at the hip
And it's a sign of love when they bump and heave
Beginning with day one, that's been the main script.

Instrumental

Your momma and daddy must have felt it too
And the very same goes for me
It's just math, cuz one and one makes two
Come on baby, it's time to make three.

You and me are living in a dream, it's true
I can't believe the joy I receive knowing you
And even though that should be enough
Nature knows how to call my bluff
It makes me need to really splurge
In the Urge To Merge.

And though my loving you should be enough
I hear Mother Nature call my bluff
Down there, I feel a surge
It's the Urge To Merge.
It's true, I feel a surge
Of the Urge To Merge
Let's splurge, in a surge
Of the Urge To Merge.
